'Fare well festival'

The center of the tango world the last four days was no more stable than the magic moment of a heavenly tango embrace. A few hours after the last tango on Sunday morning Kedelhallen was back to its old shape due to an effective effort of the volunteers.

Sometimes you just know it - sometimes you don't. Test your ability to match these tango dancers correctly. You will find the answers on the back of this years last issue of F:News.

How did you find this years festival?

Ciccio, Sicily:

It is very nice, that the festival is fairly small - I do not like, when festivals are too big. This one is very well organized. For next year, I could wish for some European teachers. Tango in Europe is grown up now.

Janja Frank, Slovenia:

I have had a wonderful festival. The milongas were so nice, the DJs were great, and it was easy to socialise. The whole thing was simply made for dancers. If I should wish for something next year, it would be more ventilators at the afternoon milonga!

So much beauty...

Well known Danish actor Lars Mikkelsen came to the Culture House to play floor hockey with friends, but was struck by all the beauty radiating from the dance floor.

"That looks amazing. It is so beautiful. And the women...!"
 Maybe we will meet Lars at one of the introclasses in Copenhagen during this summer?

Festival in numbers

Half and half on the milongapass - that was the ratio between foreign and danish participants: (51%/49%). Among the workshop participants 37% were foreign. 200 persons took classes. And 26 countries were represented.

Bye bye for now

 The editorial board thanks all festival participants for their support and willingness to share thoughts and views on this years event. See you again next year!

All hands on deck

Curtain fall, lamps out, lines cut - many things to do to clear the night milonga - after 9 hours of dancing. Due to these and other 'hands' everything was done according to plan. Thank you!
