

Do give us a hand! Take your empty bottle, used glass and other stuff out with you when you are done with it. And if you are still on your feet when the milonga ends, please help us to help yourself to a nice, fresh and beautiful venue.

Tango with a look

How do you ask a partner to dance? Do you walk over to her and ask? Do you text her? Do you call her? What is the nicest way to be asked for a dance?

F:News asked around at the afternoon milonga. And, guys, this is what the responses to the question was: What is your favorite way of being invited to dance?

From norwegian Elisabeth there was no hesitation: "Cabecco!" It means a discrete blink with the eye or a nod.

The Swedish couple Lotta and Bengt join in and also prefer the Cabecco.

Tiina and Chris from Germany add a variation to the Cabecco, namely simply by asking "Would you like to dance?"

Kids tango

It is never too early to start learning tango!

Tango is hard work

Tango is fun - yes! But no fun without hard work learning how to have fun. That was the hard truth for the workshop participants making the festival both work and fun - here documented by Charlotte Hammer.

Everyone is welcome to take part in the event, since this is a great chance for us to share our passion for tango and reach new potential members.

Tango reflections ... on sale

After 15 years of tango dancing and 10 years of teaching tango Unni Hermanzen longed for more depth. Through yoga and meditation she found a new approach to tango. Through questioning her dance she discovered new principles and structures behind the movements.

Unna and her book are present during the whole festival and at: www.tangopraxis.com

A familiar face at the festival is Swedish tango writer Magareta Westergård, who also sells her books on tango at the afternoon milonga. See: www.tangomar.se

Milongaway in the afternoon

Outside the afternoon milonga the Japanese cherry trees are blooming - and inside the dance hall the tango was blooming as well. The floor was crowded, so was the cafe - and the possibility of buying new shoes, dresses and shirts at the tango market. Don't miss out the fun.

Who is here?

Not the whole world - but close. We are having dancers this year from Canada, Denmark, Faroe Island, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Romania, Russia, Slovakia, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom, United States.

THE TANGO QUOTE

To be a great leader, do not love the woman you dance with; rather, listen to the music and love it! Beautiful tango is a process of transference - your love for the music will be transferred to the follower, and she will be enchanted.
